"Your success is our future"

Packer would like to thank James Benedetto and Scotto's Wine Cellar
for their continued support!
The Parent Association at Packer has long been a source of strong support to the school and its positive efforts are evident everywhere. The spring Black and White Bash is one more example of the PA’s commitment to improving the quality of life at Packer. The PA is raising funds to restore a Packer treasure, the stunning Dante Tiffany window, in our chapel. I hope you enjoy the Black and White Bash: Remix to Restore.

Special thanks to the dedicated group of parents who have devoted their time, energy, creativity and talents to make this a night to remember.

Sincerely,
Bruce L. Dennis
Head of School

Food is the way to anyone’s heart, especially a child’s. Win your kid’s heart by letting him or her plan the menu at Chez Packer for the week. Brunch for Lunch, burgers, special pastas….what kid wouldn’t love a chance to call the shots in the kitchen with James Moran? With awesome power comes awesome responsibility: all food groups (ketchup doesn’t count) must have equal billing, the food pyramid is part of the plan. No matter what, you won’t be packing lunch that week and that’s worth a million bucks.

Donor: James Moran & Chez Packer
Value: Priceless
Minimum Bid: $200

106 “The Penthouse, Please…..”
It takes a long time to reach Senior Year when you have elevator privileges. For a week, find out what it feels like to be one of the top dogs with this elevator pass. Take it on a whim up to your classroom, down to get your cello, back up to art class. Better yet, just ride it for the sheer joy of spending time with Ramon, one of Packer’s treasures. That’s what we do.

Donor: Ramon
Value: Priceless
Minimum Bid: $150

107 Tales from the Pits
Paul Riggio is older than he looks and he’s played some awesome shows in the orchestra pits of ballet and opera productions. He’ll tell you all about it on Broadway: Carousel, Saigon and Forum. He’s also spent time in the pit with your child. He’s a devoted following. Indeed, his old students make a habit of stopping by letting him or her plan the menu at Chez Packer for the week. Brunch for Lunch, burgers, special pastas….what kid wouldn’t love a chance to call the shots in the kitchen with James Moran? Minimum Bid: $100

109 Cool Factor
The white earphones are ubiquitous, but what are all those people listening to? Do they know something you don’t? We have taken care of your cool factor for life. Raoul Brown, music maven and Lord of the Copy Center, shares his play list on this brand-spanking new iPod Nano. Bid on it, win it, and instantly own all the tunes you know you wanted but didn’t know existed.

Donor: Raoul Brown
Value: Priceless
Minimum Bid: $200

110 Application Angst Alleviated
Veteran English teacher and essay mentor Maggie Levine will let cooler heads prevail when she tutors your applicant. Take it from those who have gone before you: you want this lot. And you want it a lot. One session.

Donor: Maggie Levine
Value: Priceless
Minimum Bid: $100

111 And Then It Crushed
Two one-hour sessions of IT help could save your marriage or your relationship with your kid. An expert in both Apple and Dell repair will surface at your door, with his black bag in hand, and fix all your problems. All of them.

Donor: Robert L. Specker
Value: Priceless
Minimum Bid: $100

112 Flicks and Slices with Tim
No one knows the mind of a fourth grader quite like Tim Jensen; he has a devoted following. Indeed, his old students make a habit of stopping by his class for after school snacks on Fridays even after they leave Packer. Extend their time with him by buying this lot. He’ll take your child and up to three friends to a mom-and-dad-approved movie in Brooklyn or Manhattan and out for pizza afterwards on a mutually agreed upon Saturday. Tim covers his expenses; you cover the kids’ costs. Then kick back and read the paper.

105 May Pole with a View
We all know it gets ugly out there as the clock nears 1 p.m. and the parents jockey for position at the May Dance. Ever get stuck behind the six foot guy with the giant video camera or had to peep through tree branches as you balance precariously on the side of a planter? The truth is, there are precious few prime viewing spots where you can be sure to get a great eyeball on your kid. We will reserve two seats, up front and center on the stone steps, where you can catch every spin and heel kick. If your child is in Sixth Grade, this is a great chance to see them complete that Packer tradition of weaving the May Pole streamers. If you are the parent of a Lower School child, there will be no better place to watch them grin and dance and celebrate life.

102 then it crashed
We were trying to put a price on this, but, honestly, who can place a value on having someone else provide college application essay tutoring? It’s always needed, it’s always pressure-filled, it’s always at the wrong time. Veteran English teacher and essay mentor Maggie Levine will let cooler heads prevail when she tutors your applicant. 115 Travels with Inger
Inger Kristiansen has charmed her science students for years in the Lower School. She knows a lot about everything under the sun and delivers it in her iconic low-key manner so that learning is exactly what it should be: natural and fun. She'll take your child and a friend on an adventure in the city: Museum of Natural History? Central Park? The Wildlife Center? You name it. Your child will love it and come back richer for the experience. You cover expenses; Inger covers the information. Now that's a treat.

Donor: Inger Kristiansen  Value: Priceless  Minimum Bid: $100

116 Ice Cream Sundaes Never Looked Better
David Youngblut, good man that he is, will take your child and a friend out for ice cream on the Promenade, weather permitting, after school on a mutually convenient Monday, Wednesday or Thursday. This makes our hearts melt.

Donor: David Youngblut  Value: Priceless  Minimum Bid: $100

117 Their Bodies, Themselves
If you've been to Bodies...The Exhibition at the South Street Seaport, you know how utterly transfixing the exhibit is. Both captivating and edifying, Bodies unveils the many complex systems of organs and tissues that drive every aspect of our daily lives and unite us all as humans. Here's the bonus: Science teacher David Thesenga will corral your kid and two more friends and take them to this exhibit. To see it is to be awed; to see it with David adds a narrative structure to the muscular one and makes for an even more compelling experience. You cover the kids’ costs; David covers his. Exhibit ends in May, so hurry up.

Donor: David Thesenga  Value: Priceless  Minimum Bid: $100

118 Fabulous Playdate
Ann Prescott is offering to have a playdate with your child. And not just any playdate. Your child will go home with Ann after school on a mutually convenient day, you can pick him or her up at Ann’s Brooklyn Heights home after dinner. (Hey, does that mean you can go on your own playdate?)

Donor: Ann Prescott  Value: Priceless  Minimum Bid: $100

119 Lunch with the Big Man
Yup, this is it. You can break bread with Mr. In-Charge, Bruce Dennis. Bruce will take you and three lucky friends out to lunch at a restaurant of your choice. (We’d pick Queen, how about you?) No matter what you pick, he’s picking up the tab. Conversation with Bruce is always engaging and more often than not educational. It’s fun, too.

Donor: Bruce Dennis  Value: You tell us  Minimum Bid: $250

120 Guess Who’s Coming to the Game?
This is quite the combination: the Headmaster meets the Subway Series. Take a breath and think about this: three wonderful field seats on Friday, June 30 plus the pleasure of Bruce’s company (he’s sitting in the fourth seat). This is as close to a win/win situation as you’ll ever see.

Donor: Susan Povich and Ralph Goham and Bruce Dennis  Value: Priceless  Minimum Bid: $300

121 Paul Burke vs. Ramon Perez/Yankees vs. The Red Sox
Anyone who rides the elevator with Ramon knows he’s a Red Sox fan. Anyone in the Upper School who’s ever gotten detention knows Paul Burke, Dean of the Ninth and Tenth Grades, roots for the Yankees. Watch Paul and Ramon throw popcorn at each other when you and a friend go with them to the game on June 8. Tickets are provided. Yes, Mr. Burke knows this is in the middle of exam week, but most upper school students won’t have an exam that day and besides, he chides us to remember what’s important in life.

Donor: Paul Burke and Ramon Perez  Value: Priceless  Minimum Bid: $200

201 Pearls of Wisdom
She’s a Packer alumna, an ex-translator and a hip and groovy jewelry designer. Plus, she’s been very generous to her alma mater with this donation. Marissa Alperin offers these beautifully crafted fresh water pearl cluster earrings and drop necklace. Fashionistas note: Marissa has been written up countless times as the girl to watch. Collect some of her pieces now, while you can.

Donor: Marissa Alperin '95  Value: $120  Minimum Bid: $60

202 What Time Is It?
It’s time for you to grow up and own a real man’s watch. This is a handsome, he-man sort of thing, a steel Baume & Mercier Men’s Hampton watch, both elegant and stylish. It’s got sub-dials, it’s got luminous hands, it’s got your name on it.

Donor: John Hamstra  Value: $1,400  Minimum Bid: $500

203 All that Sparkles is Gold
Rosanne Pugliese is one of those rare combinations of beauty within and without. Her jewelry is the same: it is elegant, spare, and gorgeous. These 24-carat gold and gemstone earrings are a perfect example. They’d set you back $800 at Barneys New York tomorrow, but you can own them tonight and save the cab fare to Madison Avenue.
- Donor: Rosanne Pugliese
  - Value: $800
  - Minimum Bid: $400

204 Midas Makes Peace with Hephaestus
Some jewelry is about adornment; other pieces are about their talismanic meaning. Linda Lee Johnson’s 22-carat gold hand hammered “Peace Charme” necklace is imbued with the message of peace. She has worked exclusively with Barneys New York for over 15 years and we know why. Her work is strong, thoughtful, sculptural.
- Donor: Ed McGowan and Judy Collinson
  - Value: $2450
  - Minimum Bid: $500

301 The MoMA You Never Knew
Everything is modern at the MoMA and we don’t just mean the art. Peter Galassi, Chief Curator of the Department of Photography, will take you and five friends for a tour of the museum, highlighting areas of interest to you or exploring new territory. Peter is a charmer and highly knowledgeable. You won’t need to nod knowingly and pretend to understand as we are often wont to do. Rather, you’ll be able to ask any questions and get unparalleled answers. This is more than a tour, it’s a lifetime experience.
- Donor: Genevieve Christy and Peter Galassi
  - Value: Priceless
  - Minimum Bid: $500

302 Take it on Faith
You know you wanted tickets but never ordered them. Here are two tickets for Tues. May 23rd to see Brian Friel’s The Faith Healer at the Booth Theater. The killer cast —Cherry Jones, Ralph Fiennes & Ian McDiarmid— has fistsful of Tonys between them. This piece explores the relationship of a supposed faith healer, his long-suffering wife and his manager. Let’s be honest: the chance to see theater like this is why we live in New York.
- Donor: Alex Alger and Dan Chung
  - Value: $350
  - Minimum Bid: $150

303 Killin’ Jazz at Lincoln Center
When jazz is killin’, notes explode, stages burn, crowds press. You can be part of the mad hot scene with two tickets to Jazz at Lincoln Center’s Fall ‘06/Spring ‘07 Season. Let Sara Kennedy know at least two weeks in advance and bring the fire extinguisher.
- Donor: Pam Maffei McCarthy and Joe McCarthy
  - Value: $325
  - Minimum Bid: $150

304 The Cover Says It All
You might not always get through each New Yorker, but we know you mean to. The magazine looks fabulous just lying around and that’s no mistake. The likes of George Booth, William Steig and Saul Steinberg have vied for the chance to have their work on the cover; now you can own one yourself. Pick your favorite cover and the donor will have it matted, framed and delivered to your doorstep. Whether or not you have the intellectual stamina to read and understand the copy is a personal problem.
- Donor: Ellen Schleifer and Jordan Katz
  - Value: Priceless
  - Minimum Bid: $1000

401 Mad for Madonna
You’ve admired her since you were… like a virgin. Two tickets, best in the house, for the Confessions Tour and we’re not talking St. Augustine. Take your favorite sinner to Madonna’s concert at Madison Square Garden. This concert sold out in about ten minutes, so the tickets are dead scarce. When you could have gotten them (not that you were on it) they would have put you back $2000 a pop. Think about what they’re worth now on eBay. The date is not set—June 28 or 29. As if the tickets weren’t enough, we threw in Madonna memorabilia to get you in the mood.
- Donor: Warner Music Group
  - Value: Absolutely Priceless
  - Minimum Bid: $1000

402 Follow Your Dream—Become the Newest Rock/Pop Sensation
Here’s a chance to make your dreams come true: record a demo CD in SONY BMG’s world famous studios, the same one used by all the big names (Beyonce, John Legend, Elton John….and you). Either bring your own instruments or Sony BMG will supply all studio personnel, instruments and equipment. They’ll mix the tracks and provide you with a master copy of the CD plus up to 6 copies. Mutually agreed upon day, but weekends encouraged. Studio tour included. So are snacks, but bring your lunch because you’ll want to stay as long as you can. This is an off-the-hook lot: the ultimate opportunity to follow your dream.

403 Guess What You're Doing for Spring Break?
We’re not travel agents, but we play some on TV. We’ve put together an unbelievable dream-come-true trip to LA for two. This package combines two days at Disneyland® Resorts with Impossible-to-procure access to the kids’ Choice Awards presented by Nickelodeon. The no-holds barred event features pranks o’ plenty with messy, noisy, slime-filled fun (imagine the shriek factor). Kids will rule and stars will shine at the mini-Oscars. How cool is this? You can bring your kid; neither of you will ever forget the time you will spend together in California. Dates are to be announced, but in 2006 the Awards fell on Saturday, April 1st. All the fun is in LA (of course). Airfare and lodging are not included.

So you’re bringing on:
Two “Park Hopper” tickets to Disneyland® Resorts which you allow to visit Disneyland® Park & Disney’s California Adventure Park in Anaheim, CA.
Two tickets to the star-studded Nickelodeon Kids’ Choice Awards where kids honor their favorites from the worlds of film, music, sports & television.
Donor: Viacom, Michele and Ken Newman
Value: Priceless • Minimum Bid: $500

404 Daily Dose
Go where America’s youth turns for the news of the day. Smart, irreverent and always on target, Jon Stewart dishes on the day’s top stories at the Daily Show like no other satirist. You can walk away with two hot tickets to a taping and feel like you’ve joined the political cognoscenti. If you’re not 18 or older, you can’t go. You have to use the tickets within six months.

Donor: Viacom • Value: Priceless • Minimum Bid: $250

405 And the Award Goes To...
We pretend not to watch them over our teens’ shoulders but who can resist? Music videos are an irresistible art form. Bold, brash and unpredictable, MTV pays annual homage to the industry with the Video Music Awards and live show featuring top stars and performers. Venue and date haven’t been determined. Last year they were in Florida, but our sources close to the event are betting on New York City in August. Must be at least 18 years of age or accompanied by an adult. Red carpet access.

Donor: Viacom • Value: Priceless • Minimum Bid: $500

406 Total Request Live—Totally Awesome
Be the totally coolest parents in New York by treating four teens to tickets to MTV’s hotter than hot show, Total Request Live. Broadcast live daily from MTV’s studio in Times Square, TRL features live performances by music mega-stars, the latest spin on music news and more excitement in the audience than when the Beatles first appeared on Ed Sullivan (remember that?). Wow. Sorry folks, no gray hairs allowed: you can only use the tickets if you’re between the ages of 18-24.

Donor: Susan & Richard Lobel • Value: Priceless • Minimum Bid: $200

407 Late Nite with Dave Can you name your cuts of meat? Got a song that will stump Paul and the CBS orchestra? Is it Trump or a monkey? Here’s your chance to pick up two tickets to the wacky Late Show with David Letterman and watch the antics of Dave and the crew. You, too, may walk away with a box of Explod-O-Pop popcorn. Some may say the humor is juvenile yet tickets are available only to those age 18 and older.

Donor: Susan & Richard Lobel • Value: Priceless • Minimum Bid: $200

408 Wake up America Unlike most of us, Diane Sawyer and Charlie Gibson are well put-together and actually coherent at 7 o’clock in the morning. You and three other people can watch this dynamic duo host ABC’s Good Morning America down at the Times Square studio by arrangement with the donor. The live program airs from 7 to 9 a.m.—which means you will have to be put together and coherent to enjoy the broadcast and tour the studio.

Donor: Karen Compton • Value: Priceless • Minimum Bid: $200

409 Conan the Conqueror You won’t have to stay up past your bedtime to enjoy two tickets to see riotous Conan O’Brien. Be part of his live studio audience and witness the unscripted, the outrageous and the downright loopy clowning of this generation’s favorite redhead. Contact the donor to pick a date in late May or June 2006.

Donor: Chip Quigley • Value: Priceless • Minimum Bid: $200

410 Red Carpet Experience We know this is an everyday experience for some folks in Hollywood, but for the hoi polloi, this is a rush. Two tickets to the New York movie premiere of The Namesake, based on the novel by Jhumpa Lahiri (she won a Pulitzer you know), produced by Lydia Dean Pilcher and directed by Mira Nair (Monsignor Weddng). The premiere will take place in Fall of 2006 and this lot includes both the screening and the party. Rub elbows with really cool people and feel extra lucky because you can’t buy tickets for this: It’s by invitation only.

Donor: Lydia Pilcher • Value: Priceless • Minimum Bid: $300

411 “Hey, Best Boy....”

We all want to be part of the scene when we walk by a shoot. The catering truck alone makes us want to join the fray, let alone the cool factor, the feeling of being in the loop. Here’s your chance: one lucky teen can arrange dates with the donor to assist a cinematographer on a shoot for a commercial, music video or movie. An outrageous chance to learn about what it’s like to be a producer, a DP, a gaffer or a Best Girl.

Donor: Ives, Morand and Wolberg Families

412 The Criterion for Film Literacy

This collection of black and white DVDs from The Criterion Collection was hand-picked for this evening’s theme. The titles are amazing. Watch them all and you’ve taken a crash course in the best of filmmaking: Fellinin’s 8 1/2, Hitchcock’s The 39 Steps, Antonioni’s L’Avventura, Bergman’s The Seventh Seal, Reed’s The Thirt Man, Lubitsch’s Trouble in Paradise, Mizoguchi’s Ugetsu. It makes us want to pour a Negroni and stay in for the weekend.

501 Swan Sails Sound

Jay Gatsby watched for the harbor light across West Egg and so can you and five more guests, aboard this 45’ Swan Yacht, Cruise Long Island Sound, Shelter Island or Stamford, Connecticut one afternoon this August while you nibble on appetizers and sip cocktails. Or use this occasion as a crash course in sailing. Like love and Zelda, this is a fleeting pleasure; you will never forget skimming along the waters in this vessel. Among sailors, the name “Swan” implies an unsurpassed level of quality and workmanship but those in the know simply say this boat is “yar.” Don’t forget to wear your pink suit.

504 Here’s the Key to Your Italian Villa, Madame....

A restored stone farmhouse, set in a large olive tree grove in Umbria, Italy, sounds like our idea of heaven. Add the pool with the view of the rolling hills with a guest house and it’s more like Eden. This wonderful home sleeps six comfortably, eight if you count the fold-out couch. We know you’ll want to stay all summer, but it is available for a week during May, June or part of July. Grab it now and dream about it forever.

Donor: Edward Youkilis and Rebecca Gideon

Value: $2,700  Minimum Bid: $1000

601 Not Your Average Picture

Ann Billingsley’s photography is known far and wide for its elegant simplicity and articulate communication. She is a mother and a photographer; this comes through in her work. She looks through her viewfinder and finds the beauty in a gesture or a simple glance with a keen eye. She will take a portrait of an individual (wouldn’t it be great to have one really good picture of your husband? Or wife?) or a family. Includes four rolls of either color or black and white (mais oui) and a portrait. Here’s the great part: she’ll come to you in the metropolitan area or Litchfield County or Westchester County or the Hamptons this summer (and, really, where else would one be?).

Donor: Ann Billingsley Geracioti

Value: $650  Minimum Bid: $300

602 Bangladesh Dinner Serves Eight; Hold the Air Fare

We all like to travel to Bangladesh, but the jet lag gets us down. Happily, Shaheen Rushd can save you the trip. This Bangladesh native will prepare and deliver a five-course meal for eight, customized to your tastes and predilections. Just the thought of the aromatic spices makes our mouths water. She knows what she’s doing, believe us.

Donor: Shaheen Rushd and Jeremy Silverman

Value: Priceless  Minimum Bid: $250

603 (Tennis) Ball Busting

Al Bunis has his name on the wall of the Heights Casino in about a thousand places. Why? Because he’s one the best tennis players the Club has ever known. And he will give you a personal lesson for an hour at the Casino on a mutually convenient weekend before June 1st. Think of the smack down you could give your nemesis after a lesson with Al.

Donor: Lynn and Al Bunis

Value: $100  Minimum Bid: $50

604 Sweet Surrender
We know you haven’t thought about Mother’s Day (or Father’s); we can tell by looking at you. Here’s the perfect gift: a massage session under the skillful hands of Susan Braham, a licensed massage therapist. She has extensive experience in all manner of massage therapies and understands the healing power of touch. That’s more than we can say for most people. Expires October 22, 2006.
● Donor: Susan Braham ● Value: $100 ● Minimum Bid: $50

605 Pimp Your Computer
Leonard Liebes will “optimize” your computer, no matter the platform or the location. He will correct errors in your hard drive and clean out fragmented files. He will also install a nifty version of Acrobat 7 and show you how to use it. It’s sort of like having someone come to your house, tune up your car, detail it and then teach you to drive it all over again. While he isn’t a Life Coach, we wonder if he shouldn’t be.
● Donor: Leonard Liebes ● Value: $150 ● Minimum Bid: $70

606 Better Reading Than In The Doctor’s Office
This lot includes a year’s subscription to all the magazines you need to keep apace of the world around you. Time, Fortune, Money, People, Real Simple, InStyle, Sports Illustrated… and you won’t need to make an appointment with your physician to read them. Think what your coffee table will look like.
● Donor: Carrie Welch & Frank Gribney ● Value: $600 ● Minimum Bid: $200

607 An Enchanting Portrait
Clare Fisher is known for her whimsical photographic portraits of children. Each has its own unique quality enhanced by costumes, backgrounds and a bit of magic. Or she will take a family portrait (minus the costumes we presume, though you could ask). You choose. This package includes a photography session with Clare at her studio and one 16”x20” print on either watercolor paper with a mat or mounted on canvas. This certificate expires on May 1, 2007, and excludes dates in November and December.
● Donor: Clare Fisher ● Value: $900 ● Minimum Bid: $400

701 Lap Dogs
This handmade Scottie dog quilt made especially for this auction is a priceless piece of art that will keep you or a special baby warm. Granny Risher is a master quilter as evidenced by her even stitches and fine seams. This is something that will be handed down for generations; don’t pass up this fine example of one of the oldest and gentlest crafts.
● Donor: Martha Watson and Granny Risher Value: Priceless ● Minimum Bid: $100

702 Mike Miller Original
Hipper than hip, Packer New Media teacher Mike Miller has shown his work all over New York. Owning a piece of art is great pleasure. Owning a piece of great art by a painter whom you know, admire and enjoy is a supreme honor. Make it yours.
● Donor: Mike Miller ● Value: $500 ● Minimum Bid: $250

703 First Grade Faces in Black and White
Roberta Rossi Baum has created an amazing quilt specifically for The Black and White Bash. She photographed each face of the current Class of 2017, transferred the images onto fabric and handmade what can only be described as a Warholesque masterpiece. This astonishing work of art is available tonight and then, never again. Don’t miss the chance to memorialize this magical time in our children’s lives.
● Donor: Roberta Rossi Baum and the Class of 2017 Value: Priceless ● Minimum Bid: $500

704 Looking Closely
Josie Iselin’s pedigree is unquestionable (BA from Harvard, MFA from SFSU, exhibits in numerous venues), but it’s her vision that is remarkable and moves us. A mother, an artist, a documentarist of the elegance of the quotidian, Josie’s pictures make us take a minute, take a breath, take stock. This framed photograph, “Row #4,” is signed and numbered.
● Donor: Josie Iselin ● Value: $500 ● Minimum Bid: $200

705 Equestrian Etching
There are those among us who know that the best seat is in the saddle. Then there are those who are merely waiting to learn this to be true. No matter whether you are the former or the latter, this is a fine etching by Irving Amen. Amen’s work is collected the world over by museums; we especially appreciate that he is also known for his work in stained glass. This etching, newly reframed, memorializes the beauty of the horse and rider. Would that we could all go hacking tomorrow.
● Donor: Jane Platt & Radey Johnson ● Value: $500 ● Minimum Bid: $250
203 All that Sparkles Is Gold
Rosanne Pugliese is one of those rare combinations of beauty within and without. Her jewelry is the same: it is elegant, spare, and gorgeous. These 24-carat gold and gemstone earrings are a perfect example. They'd set you back $800 at Barneys New York tomorrow, but you can own them tonight and save the cab fare to Madison Avenue.

Donor: Rosanne Pugliese
Value: $800
Minimum Bid: $400

204 Midas Makes Peace with Hephaestus
Some jewelry is about adornment; other pieces are about their talismanic meaning. Linda Lee Johnson's 22-carat gold hand hammered “Peace Charme” necklace is imbued with the message of peace. She has worked exclusively with Barneys New York for over 15 years and we know why. Her work is strong, thoughtful, sculptural.

Donor: Ed McGowan and Judy Collinson
Value: $2450
Minimum Bid: $500

301 The MoMA You Never Knew
Everything is modern at the MoMA and we don't just mean the art. Peter Galassi, Chief Curator of the Department of Photography, will take you and five friends for a tour of the museum, highlighting areas of interest to you or exploring new territory. Peter is a charmer and highly knowledgeable. You won't need to nod knowingly and pretend to understand as we are often wont to do. Rather, you'll be able to ask any questions and get unparalleled answers. This is more than a tour, it's a lifetime experience.

Donor: Genevieve Christy and Peter Galassi
Value: Priceless
Minimum Bid: $500

302 Take It on Faith
You know you wanted tickets but never ordered them. Here are two tickets for Tues. May 23rd to see Brian Friel's The Faith Healer at the Booth Theater. The killer cast —Cherry Jones, Ralph Fiennes & Ian McDiarmid— has fistfuls of Tonys between them. This piece explores the relationship of a supposed faith healer, his long-suffering wife and his manager. Let's be honest: the chance to see theater like this is why we live in New York.

Donor: Alex Alger and Dan Chung
Value: $350
Minimum Bid: $150

303 Killin' Jazz at Lincoln Center
When jazz is killin', notes explode, stages burn, crowds press. You can be part of the mad hot scene with two tickets to Jazz at Lincoln Center's Fall '06/Spring '07 Season. Let Sara Kennedy know at least two weeks in advance and bring the fire extinguisher.

Donor: Sara Kennedy
Value: $130
Minimum Bid: $60

304 The Cover Says It All
You might not always get through each New Yorker, but we know you mean to. The magazine looks fabulous just lying around and that's no mistake. The likes of George Booth, William Steig and Saul Steinberg have vied for the chance to have their work on the cover; now you can own one yourself. Pick your favorite cover and the donor will have it matted, framed and delivered to your doorstep. Whether or not you have the intellectual stamina to read and understand the copy is a personal problem.

Donor: Pam Maffei McCarthy and Joe McCarthy
Value: $325
Minimum Bid: $150

401 Mad for Madonna
You've admired her since you were… like a virgin. Two tickets, best in the house, for the Confessions Tour and we're not talking St. Augustine. Take your favorite sinner to Madonna's concert at Madison Square Garden. This concert sold out in about ten minutes, so the tickets are dead scarce. When you could have gotten them (not that you were on it) they would have put you back $2000 a pop. Think about what they're worth now on eBay. The date is not set—June 28 or 29. As if the tickets weren't enough, we threw in Madonna memorabilia to get you in the mood.

Donor: Warner Music Group
Value: Absolutely Priceless
Minimum Bid: $1000

402 Follow Your Dream—Become the Newest Rock/Pop Sensation
Here's a chance to make your dreams come true: record a demo CD in SONY BMG's world famous studios, the same one used by all the big names (Beyonce, John Legend, Elton John.....and you). Either bring your own instruments or Sony BMG will supply all studio personnel, instruments and equipment. They'll mix the tracks and provide you with a master copy of the CD plus up to 6 copies. Mutually agreed upon day, but weekends encouraged. Studio tour included. So are snacks, but bring your lunch because you'll want to stay as long as you can. This is an off-the-hook lot: the ultimate opportunity to follow your dream.

Donor: Ellen Schleifer and Jordan Katz

815 Rangers Play-Off Seats, 2005, 2006 season
These seats are up there with the crazy “blueshirt” fans and we all know these games can be a party. Two tickets for the second home game of the first round play-offs at The Garden. The date is TBA, but no sooner than the week of April 24th.

Donor: Susan Curley & Douglas Weaver
Value: $100  Minimum Bid: $50

901 The Circle of Life
We are all getting to that time in life when our aging loved ones need our care. This package is perfect for those of us looking around and realizing we are the caregivers now for those who cared for us. A three-year subscription to Caring Today magazine and a session with Carolyn McIntyre, an experienced consultant in these delicate matters.

Donor: Carolyn McIntyre  Value: $150

902, 903 “Mommy, Do You Have a Band-Aid?”
Be prepared for those horrible moments when Nurse Karen isn’t by your side. This all-purpose 186-piece first aid kit contains everything that you need to care for loved ones until real help arrives. It is perfect for camping trips or just trips to the deli.

Donor: Olga Wildfeuer  Value: $100

904 Buckle Up For Fashion: It’s the Law
Okay, so we know you are supposed to wear your seat belt, but this is taking it a step further. A smart, elegant tote in that fashion-forward color, sage green, made entirely of seat belt material. What will they think of next?

Donor: Norm and Jacque Jones  Value: $120

905 You’re In Print
Moving? Birthing? Getting Married? Divorced? Mitzvahing? Just want to say thank you? You can have it all custom printed by Deborah Melnick and feel good about how you convey your message.

Donor: Deborah Melnick  Value: $50

906, 907 Checks and Balances
We can’t promise you’ll like what it tells you, but we can promise you’ll get an accurate read. Two stylish scales, boxed as separate lots, which measure up 400 pounds, so at least you have room to work with.

Donor: Olga Wildfeuer, MD  Value: $100 each

908 Your New Best Friend
He won’t get mad if you forget his birthday and you’ll want to sleep with him every night. He’s an 18” stuffed teddy bear. This is as low-maintenance as any relationship can get.

Donor: Margaret Smith  Value: $10

909 How To Bake a Cake with a Saw Inside
Martha Stewart knows how to bake a cake and she shares her secrets (well, not all, but some...) in this cookbook. She signed it, too. And that’s a good thing.

Donor: Margaret Smith  Value: $40/ Priceless signature

910 Meet Me at BAM
Here’s a gift certificate for dinner and drinks for two at the BAMcafe Live. A perfect place to meet before that oh-so-cool Ibsen production in the original Swedish or an arty film. Count the number of people wearing interesting rectangular glasses and be one with them.

Donor: Great Performances  Value: $100

911 Beach Stones
In this book, Josie Iselin creates imagery from three-dimensional objects that feel like sculpture on the page. We can look at her photographs every day and still see something new each time. You will, too, if you are lucky enough to take this extraordinary book home.

1001  We Like It Both Shaken and Stirred
How are you enjoying your Negronis tonight? They go down pretty easily, no? Wouldn’t it be great to make your own while watching the movies from Lot #412? This fabulous London cocktail shaker is paired with a vintage engine-turned waiter’s tray. This kind of hotel silver is hard to find and a pleasure to use. Don’t be afraid of it; jump in with both feet. Or both jiggers.

Donor: Hôtel and Ginger Kilbane  •  Value: $750  •  Minimum Bid: $300

1001  Shedding Light on the Subject
Sometimes lots come in which invite a fist-fight among the members of the Auction Committee, reminiscent of the glory days of the dressing room of Filene’s Basement. There is huge interest out there in these two brushed satin chrome floor lamps, designed by Walter Von Nessen in the 1950’s. Can you blame us? They are contemporary in their flair and timeless in their elegance. Like our husbands. Only these turn on and off with a flick of a switch. Check them out.

Many thanks to all our donors, our tireless volunteers, the staff and administration of Packer for facilitating our work. As with many events at the school, it has been a collaboration with everyone who said “yes” to our pleas for time, money, a hand, a leg up. To thank each person by name would be impossible; even as we write this, there are new faces contributing their gifts. To all of you, our deepest appreciation.
